HOAGLAND'S
NEW PATENT SHAFT COUPLING!
W. E. COOPER

HAS PURCHASED THE RIGHT FOR THIS County of the above Patent and will hereafter use it in the construction of all the Vehicles manufactured at his extensive
Carriage Factory,
Corner of Second and Morrison Streets.
He respectfully refers to the following

CARD.

Having examined the New Patent Shaft Coupling invented by H. R. Hoagland, we feel pleasure in informing the public that in our opinion it is the safest and best method of connecting shafts or tongues to all vehicles that has ever been used.

It fastens without bolt or screw and is therefore, easily and speedily separated. It rests on Gutta Percha so as to be entirely free from the rattling sound which so often disturbs restless horses. It is easily changed so that the shafts or tongue may be detached in an instant, and is convenient, safe and secure

It is easy to change to this style of coupling any buggy or other vehicle now in use, and with small expense. We have come to the conclusion to use this new invention ourselves and recommend its use in all cases We consider it far superior to the Brewster Patent, heretofore considered the best in use

What Constitutes an Infamous Crime and May be Punished without Indictment

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT—DISTRICT OF OREGON

FRIDAY Sept 24 1869

United States vs Charles Smith Action for beating and wounding seamen on the high seas

On September 20 1869 the District Attorney filed a complaint in this court against the defendant under the act of June 11 1864 " to provide for the summary trial of minor offences against the laws of the United States

The complaint alleges That on and on board the American ship or vessel Adelie Flood owned in whole or in part by a citizen or citizens of the United States on or about the 4th day of July 1869 the said above named defendant Charles Smith did maliciously willfully and unlawfully and with force and arms assault one Emanuel Minard, then and there a seaman employed on board the said ship or vessel and did then and there from malice, hatred and revenge and without justifiable cause beat and wound the said Emanuel Minard with a dangerous weapon, commonly known as a slung shot, and that said defendant was then and there the first mate of said ship, and that at the date of such assault said ship was on the South Pacific ocean on a voyage from New York to this port and within the admiralty jurisdiction of this court Contrary to the peace and dignity etc The defendant appeared and pleaded " not guilty" and upon his demand the issue was tried by a jury who found the defendant guilty as charged in the complaint and recommended him to the mercy of the court

The defendant by his counsel now moves in arrest of judgment because

I The defendant has been held to answer upon an indictment not found by a grand jury and

II The complaint is uncertain insufficient and of a double aspect.'

In support of the second ground of the motion it is urged that the complaint charges two crimes—one under section 3 of the act of March 3, 1835, which, among other things provides for the punishment of officers of an American vessel, who from malice, hatred or revenge, and without justifiable cause, are guilty of beating or wounding one of the crew of such vessel—and another under section 2 of the act of March 3, 1825, which, among other things, provides for the punishment of any person who on an American vessel shall assault another with a dangerous weapon (Bright's Dig 210 11)

It is no objection that the complaint which must be considered as an indictment charges the commission of a crime under each of these sections On the contrary, being crimes of the same class the law waived the expense and hardships that two trials requires that they should be joined in one indictment, but stated in separate counts [Bright Dig 223]

I do not think, however, that this complaint charges the commission of two crimes but it must be confessed that there is such a mingling and confusion of terms from the two sections in question and redundancy of allegation as to give some grounds for the conclusion, that the pleader commenced under the last named section, by charging that the defendant wilfully and maliciously and with force and arms made an assault upon Minard, and then as counsel says, shifted to the first named section and charged the defendant with beating and wounding Minard with a dangerous weapon, from malice, hatred and revenge and without justifiable cause But there is enough stated to warrant a conviction under either section, and it is too late after verdict to object to an indictment for uncertainty if the act charged as a crime is stated with sufficient certainty to enable the court to give judgment according to the right of the case

In support of the first ground of the motion it is insisted that the crime charged is an "infamous" one, and that, therefore, the defendant cannot be adjudged guilty of it, except upon a presentment or indictment of a grand jury In support of this conclusion, counsel refers the court to the Fifth Amendment to the National Constitution which declares "No person shall be held to answer for a capital or otherwise infamous crime unless on a present or indictment of a grand jury;" and also to the language of the act of June 11 1864 authorizing this summary proceeding, which provides

Sec 2 That whenever a complaint shall be made against any master etc of any ship etc., belonging in whole or in part to any citizen etc, of the United States of the commission of any offence not capital or otherwise infamous, against any law of the United States, made for the protection of persons or property engaged in commerce or navigation, it shall be the duty of the District Attorney to investigate the same and the general nature thereof, and if in his opinion the case is such as should be summarily tried under the provisions of this act, he shall report the same to the District Judge, and the Judge shall forthwith or as soon as the ordinary business of the Court will permit, proceed to try the cause and for that purpose may, if necessary, hold a special session of the Court.'

The conclusion is admitted but this is not "a capital or otherwise infamous crime A capital crime being one that is punished by death, it is manifest that the crime charged is not in that category Counsel seems to take it for granted that because this crime may in the discretion of this Court be punished with confinement at hard labor, that therefore it is "infamous" But this is erroneous The term ' infamous ' as applied to crimes, is a common law one, and is used in the Constitution in its legal sense It is not the punishment, but the nature of the offence which makes a crime infamous, (Phil Ev. 30) The origin of the distinction rests upon the idea that the commission of the crime in question involves falsehood and deceit, and renders the person guilty of it infamous and therefore incapable of being a witness 'Of this class of crimes are treason, forgery, perjury and all felonies (Bouvier's Dic 1 Phil Ev 28,)

Now, whether a crime is a felony or not is to be ascertained in this case by the common law and not by the statute of Oregon It would seem from the argument of counsel that he assumes that this crime is a felony and therefore infamous because it may in the discretion of the court be punished by confinement at hard labor But this is also incorrect. ' A felony is an offence which occasions a total forfeiture of either lands or goods or both, at common law, and to which capital or other punishment may be superadded, according to the degree of guilt. [4 Bl Com 95] It is not then the confinement at hard labor or other special punishment that may be superadded to the forfeiture of lands or goods, that constitutes an offence a felony at common law and therefore infamous This forfeiture never followed the conviction for assault or battery or wounding, what ever the special punishment might be They are therefore specially classed among inferior offences or misdemeanors [4 Bl Com 216]

It is competent then for Congress to provide for the accusation and trial of this defendant without an indictment found by a grand jury and they have done so Nor do I see any difficulty in the application of the act It is short and simple The class of crimes to which it applies are few in number and whatever punishment may have been prescribed for them under this act the Court is limited to one year's imprisonment and five hundred dollars fine

The motion in arrest of judment is not allowed

A DEMOCRAT'S OPINION W J Shaw Senator from San Francisco has been spending some months in China He writes to the Alta a letter containing among other things the following concerning the Chinese sedan chair bearers

They are a stalwart hardy race and an invoice of one thousand landed in San Francisco could easily hold their own against a third greater number of the self-constituted Irish Reception Committee that flourished before I left and as in physique they are as far ahead of them in the moral qualification which form the elements of civilization As a Democratic leader I should prefer them as constituents if the choice was based upon shrewd native intelligence that could detect without prejudice right from wrong

Monetary Affairs

NEW YORK Sept 30—There was much excitement in Wall street to day and in the gold room, open transactions being made with the understanding that all deliveries shall be made on the day of sale

The excitement for the past week has given way to comparative quiet Business at the Stock Exchange is now conducted more orderly A number of large gold contracts on last Friday's business, have been privately settled, and the complications incident to that day's business have been reduced to comparatively a small compass

The Express estimates that the depreciation in the price of gold and securities dealt in on the Stock Exchange since Thursday will reach $100 000 000 in currency Many men are reduced from affluence to poverty

The Fate of Sir John Franklin.

Hall's detailed report of his arctic expedition is published It appears there is no longer a shadow of a hope that any one survives from the Franklin company It is thought that none of them reached even so far as Montreal Island Their bones lie scattered along the coast of King William's Island, some in isolated graves, and others where they died in companies Their melancholy history has a crowning terror in the knowledge that they died of starvation through the base behavior of the Esquimaux. On learning their fate Capt. Hall was reduced to the awful necessity of taking the life of one of his own mutinous men Hall state that the Erebus and Terror were abandoned One ship of Sir John Franklin was in complete order Four boats hanging high up at the ship's side and on the quarter deck The vessel was in winter housing of sail cloth. This vessel was found by the natives near O Reilly Island, latitude 68° 30 longitude 98° 8' west, early in the spring of 1849 being frozen in the midst of a smooth unbroken flow of ice of only one winter's formation.

The Pinch in the Money Market

NEW YORK Oct 1 The Times says that last evening a strong and powerful delegation of merchants and importers of the city left for Washington for the purpose of holding a conference with the President relative to the condition of financial affairs previous to holding a Cabinet meeting. The subject of discussion before the Cabinet meeting will be the financial condition of the country as affected by the recent crisis. The merchants and importers have decided to seek the President's aid in this emergency, so that they may be relieved from the embarrassments naturally resulting from the unsettled condition of the money market. On Wednesday Secretary Boutwell was asked if he would not modify his programme as to selling $10,000,000 during the next month It was considered and Boutwell sent back positive instructions that the line of action already determined on would not be in any way disturbed The merchants and importers there upon determined to send a delegation to consult with the President and request him to allow the Secretary discretionary powers so that he can sell gold in such quantities and at such times as will best regulate the market.

Is Free Trade a Mistake?

We have alluded of late to a growing spirit of inquiry in England relative to the merits of the partial free-trade system of that country and the dissatisfaction which is manifesting itself against it. The discussion of the subject seems to be assuming a wider range than one would have supposed to be possible in "free-trade England." We find in a British newspaper a letter from a leading manufacturer of Sheffield, in which, under the caption, "Is free trade a mistake?" he presents some figures and observations on this subject in a very forcible way. "It is no wonder" he says, "that people are complaining of bad times when we stand in the position we are now in. To what extent foreign competition has grown may be best gathered from the following figures: In 1854, the total excess of imports over British exports was represented by £55,204,527. In 1860, this excess had reached £74,639,646, and in 1868 the total exess of imports over exports had amounted to the enormous and ruinous sum of £116,074,922, an amount more by £13,081,505 than the whole of our textile manufactures exported to the whole world, giving a balance against us in our foreign trade for the year 1868, of £116,000,000 sterling."

This is a startling exhibit. A balance of trade against the United States of less than half this sum is considered by many absolutely ruinous. The writer we are quoting inquires: "What must be the effects of free admission into the country of 362,523 clocks and watches, of 77,145,920 yards of cotton manufactures, of 404,544 cwts. of glass, of 327,003 lbs of straw hats and bonnets, of 468,240 pairs of boots and shoes, of 70,714,189 pairs of kid and other gloves, of 3,366,136 lbs of silk manufactures, of 2,261,192 lbs of woolen and worsted yarn? What amount of labor would not these articles have found for our half starving population?"

This is sharply put, but the next paragraph is even more trenchant. "While certain articles," says the writer, "such as tea, coffee, sugar, &c., which we cannot produce ourselves, are admitted only at heavy duties other articles which we can produce, and our half-starved countrymen are literally dying to produce, are admitted free, such as silks, woolens, watches and clocks, cottons, hats, gloves, &c., &c." This is an accurate representation of the policy of England. She collects heavy duties from a few articles of prime necessity which the whole people are obliged to have for consumption, and admits free of duty a great variety of goods which the poor cannot have, and which only the middle and upper classes are able to enjoy.

We quote again from this writer: "Since 1863 upward of 3,000,000 of our people have emigrated, and principally to extreme protective countries, where their labor has found a better reward. We have tried free trade so long in the face of other protective producing countries that it is almost time we protected ourselves." If the blessings of British free trade are so wonderful as some among us represent them, it is not a little singular that so many working people leaving that country are coming to America, where the protective system prevails. But the Sheffield manufacturer understands the situation, and proposes the remedy, when he says it is time the English people adopted the policy of other nations and protected themselves.

It is remarkable that in this country widespread derangement and financial distress have invariably followed those periods wherein we have had the closest approximation to free trade. And it is another remarkable fact that, with the renewal of the tariffs, industries of every kind have grown and prospered. Nothing but the tariff system we have had for the last eight years could have carried us over the general derangement and tremendous losses caused by the war. As it is, labor in this country was never more fully employed or better compensated; the development of our resources is proceeding with gigantic strides; the influx of immigration is greater than at any former period of our history, and, notwithstanding the burden of the public debt, the country never had so promising a future.

In General.

The entire Democratic party of Mississippi enthusiastically supporting a negro named Sinclair for Secretary of State. It is painful to think of the mongrelizing tendencies of these times!

The Herald has a spasm because the clerks in the departments at Washington are to be allowed to go home to Pennsylvania to vote in the coming election. That paper has now for the first time heard of a practice which has been observed at Washington for years, both by Republican and Democratic administrations.

Nearly all the gold gambling clique of New York are leading Democrats of the Tammany persuasion. These conspirators get up a "corner" in the market, some of them lose heavily, and then they go about the streets cursing Secretary Boutwell for the rise in gold. Such is Democracy of the Belmont-Rothschild stripe.

Chief Justice Chase very pointedly says, in a recent letter ostensibly declining to take any active interest in politics, that he is "not at all satisfied that, if in a higher place, he could do any better than those now exercising executive functions do." This tribute to President Grant, from that source, is equally unexpected and complimentary.

The familiarity which the "Sunday Leader" man exhibits with the nomenclature of "gambling hells" is suggestive. He talks about a "hogging deal," "blue checks," "white checks," "stocked cards," "bucking at the game," etc., etc. The query is, was all this wealth of technical and preparatory learning obtained at the "lottery of a Church Fair?"

The Petersburg (Va.) Express has discovered what, if it had been found out a decade before, would have saved the South a great deal of trouble. It says: "So far, the Northern Democracy have never rendered us the slightest service, but they have always been on the qui vive to find out how they could most advantageously use us for their own interested purposes."

Considerable progress is making on the Southern California railroads. Work will shortly be commenced on the San Diego and Gila road, and it is expected that within a year the cars will be running from San Diego to Fort Yuma, a distance of 140 miles. This Company have sold about $7,000,000 of their bonds in Europe. The Memphis and El Paso Company, which has sixty miles of road graded and ready for the iron, and forty more underway, will connect at Fort Yuma with the San Diego road.

Eastern journals report that Democratic speakers are reduced to the greatest straits for arguments to use on the stump, and are compelled to resort to petty slanders of their own invention against President Grant. Meantime a single fact that will go through them all, like a rocket through a kite, is the fact that the gain in the customs and internal revenue receipts for the present fiscal quarter, over the corresponding quarter in 1868, will exceed fifteen millions.

It is a notable fact that the better and more respectable classes of people of both political parties are not afraid of Chinese competition and never express any fears about being compelled to associate with the inferior races. It is only the low, unintelligent and generally worthless elements of the white population who keep up a clatter about these things. This is a fact which every observer understands, though certain Oregon editors might be disposed to deny it.

In New York negroes have always possessed the right to vote, and still vote in every election. Yet the New York Democratic Convention, which was held a few days ago, opposed the Fifteenth Amendment, alleging that it will "debase and demoralize the representative system." It is curious to observe that though the people of New York, ever since they were an organized political community, have been living under a "debased and demoralized representative system," the Democracy there have just found it out.

The Commercial notices what the Herald says about imposing a special tax on Chinese, and remarks: "We are sorry to see the Herald take such a vulnerable and foolish position. The most ignorant half of any lawyer in the city knows that a State has no right to discriminate between persons in levying a tax. The Democratic party is weakened by the assumption, on its part, of such an absurd doctrine." We beg the Commercial not to be too severe. The Herald's position on this question is as logical as most of the partisan writing in the Democratic newspapers of the State. It is such absurdities as this which enables them to merit the appellation of the asinine press of Oregon.

The new Democratic catechism in Tennessee makes very interesting reading. Here is an extract from the Memphis Avalanche for which its editor, if in Oregon, would be read out of the party: "Recognize the negro's right to vote; cease to abuse and sneer at him; treat him as a human being, with a soul in his body, and as susceptible of the sensibilities, the resentments and frailties of humanity, and he will at once emulate the magnanimity of the whites, endeavor to rival them in industry, enterprise and thrift, cultivate amity, educate his children, acquire homesteads for his family, strive to deserve the confidence of his fellow-men, and above all, he will never vote to injure the white man, who he has learned by kindness is his only friend."

In a communication to the New York Tribune, James Parton thus speaks of Byron and Mrs. Stowe's revelations concerning him: "Byron may be called the founder of the school, both of literature and journalism, the main end and aim of which is to make vice attractive and virtue ridiculous. We cannot be grateful enough to Mrs. Stowe for tearing off the mask from the most histrionic of writers—the writer of all others who had most need to be histrionic, because he had the most to hide. Not that incest was the worst of his offences. Moore relates worse things of Byron than Mrs. Stowe has revealed. Compared with his beastly life in Venice, where he spent his wife's fortune upon the lowest grades of harlots, his incest soars to the rank of virtuous attachment."

The Herald in its genial way says: "The editor of the OREGONIAN is such a blasted old fogy that he has not heard of a recent case in Idaho where the Supreme Court decided that the Legislature of a Territory had a right to levy a special tax on Chinamen." The editor of the Herald is "such a blasted old fogy" that he has not heard of the cases in California where the Supreme Court decided that the Legislature of the State had not this right to levy a special tax on Chinamen. And he is a still "blasteder old fogy" for not having heard that the Supreme Court of the United States has denied the right of any State or Territory to levy such a tax. Grand idea to quote Justice Noggle, (or Noodle) of the sagebrush district of Idaho against the unanimous opinion of the United States Supreme Bench!

It is believed by persons well-informed in the commercial world that the dangers of the Red Sea will always prevent a heavy traffic from being carried on between Europe and Asia by that route, even after the opening of the Suez Canal. A magnificent steamer, the Carnatia, belonging to a British company, has just been lost by striking a reef in the Red Sea, and all the cargo, a great quantity of specie, and a large number of lives were lost with the ship. New reefs and sand-banks are forming continually, and the charts are therefore of little use in navigating those waters. The Carnatia is the second British steamer which has been lost there. It is impossible for human art to lessen the perils of the passage between Suez and Aden. This, it is said, will be the great obstacle to the pecuniary success of the Suez Canal.

The Herald thinks that much of the rage for gambling which so afflicts society is "caught at the lottery of Church Fairs." The Advocate notices this opinion, and demands that the Church in all her branches, shall "clear her skirts" of this evil. We do not intend to offer any defence for Church Fairs; but in our opinion they have no more agency in exciting rage for gaming that is prevalent among us than they have in producing a crop of noxious weeds in the highway. Not one gambler in a hundred ever saw a Church Fair. The vice generally begins by playing cards whisky and cigars; and gamblers, after they get into the habit, are often anxious to justify themselves by saying that their conduct is no worse than that of those who patronize Church Fairs, and that they took their first lessons in gaming at a Church Lottery. It is a pretense, an excuse, an attempt to throw off individual responsibility for vice, and to strike a blow at the integrity of the Church. Church Fairs may be very objectionable, but we have no idea that any professional gambler ever "got his start" at one.

A block of buildings in Chicago, belonging to Elisha Sprague, who was so terribly afflicted with erysiplace, was sold on the 20th ult., for the purpose of raising funds to soothe the lacerated feelings of Amanda Craig, who got the $100,000 verdict for breach of promise. The block was worth $40,000, brought $20,000, and Elisha can redeem it within fifteen months from the day of sale.

The Russian Government is busily engaged preparing for the Universal Exposition to take place next year at St. Petersburg. The edifice will be built upon the model of the Crystal Palace, and in the same gigantic dimensions, and is to cost $2,000,000.

GENERAL NEWS ITEMS.

Wendell Phillips is with Mrs. Stowe in the Byron controversy, and says that everybody else will be before long, for that Mrs. Stowe is going to prove what she has written.

The Providence Journal says that the registry tax, which is required as a qualification for suffrage in all cases in Rhode Island, has quite failed in practice, and that nothing but the extreme reluctance of the people of the State to change their fundamental law has prevented its abrogation.

General Garfield has recently written a letter declaring that the bonds must be paid in gold, and saying that although Hon. Thaddeus Stevens in his last days took the other side, that does not alter the fact that he and all others who spoke on the bill at the time of its passage admitted that the principal of the bonds was payable in gold.

Hon. Thomas C. McCreery, of Kentucky, would like to go back to the United States Senate, but he finds rivals in the persons of Gov. Stevenson, R. H. Stanton, John G. Carlisle, who is a young man, Congressman Golladay, who advocates repudiation, Oscar Turner, General Preston and many others, of whom the most noted is Jesse D. Bright, who long since found Indiana uncongenial and sought kindred spirits in Kentucky.

In proportion to her population, New York has fewer miles of railroad than New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Connecticut, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Tennessee and California. Even Oregon will soon be ahead of her.

Fraud in India has now gone as far as the manufacture of wild beasts, for the purpose of cheating the government. Premiums are paid by the Indian government for slaying wild beasts; so tigers, bears and leopards are made to go as far as they can. First the skin is sent in, with a skull of wood fitted into the head; secondly, the real skull is brought forward; and sometimes, as a third resource, the real tiger or bear is dispensed with and the skull of a hog or jackal is tendered, provided with false teeth and covered with a pigskin, moulded on a real tiger's head. Some of the monsters were beasts of straw.

TO HEBREW PARENTS—RELIGIOUS INSTRUCTION.—Dr. Eckman has commenced imparting religious instruction to the children of those parents who may be desirous of committing their children under the (almost paternal) care of a man whose truly religious character and simplicity have ever most extraordinarily attuned his mind to that of simple childhood, and exercised a "magnetic" power over the juveniles brought within his influence which unregenerate minds can never acquire. The instructions will, till the new Synagogue will be completed, be given at the Washington Armory Hall, next building to the Portland Library. Till then, they will be given on the Sabbath and Holy days, after the close of the regular morning service.

THE WEST SIDE RAILROAD —On Thursday we took a trip to Hillsboro, our first visit to Washington county one of the principal objects of the excursion being to see what had been done and what is being done on the West Side Railroad. Our readers were informed some months ago of the fact that the track was graded and all trestle work built to a point some distance beyond the summit of the Wallamet range of hills. This work was done last year before the suspension of work. The grading was done in elegant style and the banks of cuts and the filling stand as trim to-day as when first made, while the track is everywhere solid as ground never disturbed. The bridges along the mountain side were evidently well founded as the alignments of bents except in one case where a portion of a foundation was sea filling remain as perfect as when they were erected. Except that some of the high bridges are yet to receive the road is ready to receive ties, from the head of Fourth street to a point beyond the summit. Then there are a few little patches of cuts to finish (no great job) and two or three small bridges to erect to make the track ready for ties to a point something over eight miles ... of Fourth street. When this much of the work had been accomplished the company suspended further operations until the 1st of last August. On that day Mr. Gaston having reorganized the whole system of working, began with a force of between fifty and sixty hands at a point exactly half way between Portland and Hillsboro—ten miles, by road from each place—and ... with the grading toward Hillsboro. On Thursday we found the graders at work within half a mile of Hillsboro, having completed every foot of grading from the place of beginning August 1st nine and a half miles. They will go through with it this week: the clearing of timber from the track being the principal work to be done, the ground being nearly a dead level. On this ten miles there are 1,500 lineal feet of trestle work to build to make it all ready for ties. The highest trestle work will be forty five feet and the average ... feet. A force of trestle builders are at work and will, within this month complete all they have to do.

... between the point to which the work ... last year, and the point at which Mr Gaston ... the 1st of August last there is a gap in the ... of one mile and a quarter. The graders as soon as they reach Hillsboro, say next Monday or Tuesday will return and go to work upon this ... As right ... a part of this mile and a quarter ... three to ten feet, and a part of it a corresponding ... It has, however, been unsurveyed and relocated so that, by introducing one ten degree curve the ... work of grading will be reduced to removal of ... a short cut of only three feet at the summit of a ... and a small amount of trestle work. The ... and bridge building forces now employed, will ... two weeks work. Making liberal allowances for ... detentions by accidents or bad weather the ... will be easily made ready for the ... the next month. All the unfinished trestle work is under contract and in progress with an amply ... force of workmen. Contracts for ties for a ... part of the road are also let. On the way ... we saw at several places great numbers of ties ... They are mostly made of trees from ten ... inches in diameter hewn to eight inches in ... with two flat surfaces—very substantial ...

Mr. Gaston who has had entire control and personal ... of all the operations of this year, seems to ... the money of the company in a remarkably ... and economical manner. We doubt if any ... railroad in the west can make so large a showing ... work accomplished in the same time with so ... little expenditure of money. There are ... few men in the country who have not been ... who have any proper conception of the ... of the work already done. Up to this time ... all the expenditures there have been paid out ... It must be remembered that, from the head of ... street to Fanno creek, eight miles, the grading ... work have been very heavy—a constant succession of long deep cuts, deep fills and high bridges ... however has been completed and paid ... Portland has contributed about $30 000 of the ... above stated, and Washington and Yamhill counties ... and private subscriptions, the balance.

... company has in lands, city and village lots, and ... considerable property, and we learn ... intended to prosecute the work with all possible ... Negotiations are pending for the purchase ... for the first 20 miles, which may or may not be ... If the present line of effort shall ... there is every reasonable ground to expect ... completion of the road before the 24th of next ...

PRODUCTIVE SOIL—PROFITABLE CROPS —On our trip to Hillsboro the other day we crossed what is known as the Beaver Dam swale and learned something of the productive ... of the soil. It is peculiarly adapted to the growth of vegetables and produces them at astonishing yields. ... we were told of one man who raised four hundred bushels of onions from one acre. This crop he sold at an average price of $1 20 per bushel. The cost of growing and marketing was twenty three cents per bushel. His clear profit therefore was $1 02 per bushel or $408 for the acre. Other vegetable crops grow in proportionately generous abundance.

LARGE APPLES—STRAYED OR STOLEN —Mr Chas Hay who lives about three miles from Portland gathered some very large apples which he designed to send to Illinois by Bernard. He placed them among others in a box from which some person has removed them. He is very anxious that they shall be returned so that they can be sent east. Three of them gathered from one twig weighed three pounds. It seems a pity that he should be deprived of the privilege of sending such specimens to his friends.

CIDER —Mr D F Harrington is making at the basement of the building opposite the O S N Co's office an excellent article of cider. We sampled some of it yesterday prepared for long keeping without any of the usual doctoring appliances and found it sweet and pleasant to a degree never met with in the article as commonly prepared. Mr H intends to manufacture on a considerable scale for export.

BOUND FOR CENTERVILLE —The scow loading at the foot of Washington street is bound for Centerville and will carry nearly three hundred tons consisting of 32 000 bricks 35,000 shaved hoops six tons coal fifteen tons flour bacon and other provisions stoves tinware etc and sixty tons hay the latter for one of the way points.

A PROCLAMATION WANTED —The Herald declares that the Red Stocking Base Ball Club because of not accepting the challenge of the Pioneer B B Club is estopped from claiming the championship of the Pacific coast. What says Emperor Norton? The world can't go on worth a cent till this knotty question is settled.

ANOTHER ROW AMONG THE CHINAMEN —A number of Chinamen were arrested yesterday on criminal charges lodged by one of their countrymen—the same one who figured in a conspiracy a short time since in suits before Justices Bull and Work. This row is a continuation of the former one.

SICKLY SEASON —We hear it said that there has been an unusual number of cases of sickness at Salem of late. The same is said of the country along the Sandy and Columbia rivers. The Register mentions also a considerable number of cases of sickness at Vancouver.

EAST PORTLAND PLANK ROAD —The building of this road will commence to-day. The first plank will be laid at or near the Brooklyn mill and the road will be pushed through as rapidly as possible to completion.

CATHOLIC MISSION AT THE DALLES —Rev Father Wirmenger has gone to the Dalles to give an eight days mission commencing on Sunday morning.

RAFFLE —The yacht Erin will be raffled for this evening at 8 o'clock at the Grotto saloon on Front street, next door above the What Cheer House.

THE CARTER TROUPE —The Salem Statesman says the Carter Troupe is a success beyond question. The opening night however had a slim house.

SUPREME COURT —Proceedings of Tuesday Sept 28th. The Oregon Central Railroad Company east side respondent vs Aaron E Wait appellant. This was an action brought in the Circuit Court for Clackamas county by the Company against Judge Wait for the purpose of condemning to the Company's use for the purposes of the construction of its railroad a strip of land containing about nine acres running through the Judge's farm in Clackamas county.

In the court below the defendant, Wait answered, denying the validity of the incorporation and organization of plaintiff, the Railroad Company; and also in the same answer averring the value of the land sought to be appropriated, and claiming damages in the sum of one thousand dollars. The court below on motion of the attorney for the Company, struck out that portion of the answer which denied the validity of the incorporation and organization of the corporation. Upon the trial of the case in the court below after a view of the premises by the jury and the hearing of the case on testimony the jury rendered a verdict in favor of the Company for the appropriation of the land, and in favor of the Judge for fifty dollars damages for such appropriation, a tender of judgment for one hundred dollars having been made by the Company after suit brought and begun trial. All costs some thirty five dollars which accrued in the court below after such tender of payment were taxed against Wait.

From the whole of the judgment rendered on this verdict and from the taxation of costs Wait appealed to the Supreme Court assigning as error various grounds, the principal of which were

1 That the court erred in striking out that portion of his answer which denied the validity of the incorporation and organization of the Company.

2. In charging the jury that "If you find there is resulting injury or damages to those lands of the defendant which are not taken by the plaintiff such resulting injury or damages may be compensated by resulting advantages caused to the same land by the construction of said road if you find such resulting advantages."

The court having charged that the jury "must find for the defendant, Wait what the land taken was really worth at the time, irrespective of any increased value thereof by the construction of the road."

3 That the court erred in taxing any portion of the costs against defendant for the reason that no tender was made before the action was commenced.

The supreme court affirmed the judgment and proceedings of the court below in all respects except as to the taxation of costs, in which respect it was modified, so that all costs of the case are taxed against the Company; the court holding that a defendant in an action brought under the general incorporation law of this State to appropriate lands, must if he wishes to deny the validity of the incorporation of the Company, plead that specially, and cannot combine it with an answer averring the value of the land or claiming damages; and that an answer setting up a claim for compensation or damages is a waiver of any objection to the validity of the corporation. The court also held that the charge of the court to the jury was good law. Upon the question of costs the court held that unless a tender of an amount equal to or greater than the amount finally recovered before action brought is made to a defendant, the corporation cannot recover costs.

SALEM, Sept 29 —Miles, respondent, vs Hoxter appellant. Appeal from Columbia county. Judgment affirmed. Held, that the record in these cases does not show sufficient to authorize the court to pass upon the case argued—which was whether the rule of common law requiring owners of cattle to keep them on their own land is in force in Oregon. So the question is undecided. Held that in an action for double damages, a general verdict will be deemed to cover the entire damages recoverable, and not merely single damages. Caples for appellant. Lancaster and Wait respondent.

State of Oregon, appellant, vs Daniel Bunts, respondent.

This appeal is taken by the State from a judgment of the Circuit Court for Clackamas county, committing the defendant until the fine should be paid. The attorney for the State claims that the defendant should have been committed till the fine and costs were paid. It is not necessary to pass upon this question, for there is another fatal objection to the appeal. The statute (Criminal Code sec. 227) provides that an appeal may be taken by the State in criminal actions in only two cases, to-wit:

1 Upon a judgment rendered for defendant, on demurrer to the indictment; and

2 Upon an order of the Court arresting the judgment.

This appeal does not come within either of these descriptions, and this Court therefore has no jurisdiction of the cause, and could not reverse the decision of Court below upon the question sought to be raised by the appellant. The appeal is dismissed.

SALEM Sept 30 1869 —The verdict of the Court below, in the case of Besser vs Shultz et al was affirmed and that in the case of Thompson appellant vs. Zelber, respondent, was reversed.

The argument in the case of Glitner vs Stehman was concluded and the case submitted. The case of Wm O Hara and Catherine O Hara, respondents, vs. City of Portland appellant was argued and submitted.

Mysteries of a Woman's Apparel.

WHAT WAS SEEN AT MADAME DEMOREST'S—PAPER DRESSES, CLOAKS AND HATS—THE LATEST STYLES.

Wednesday was Madame Demorest's opening day. To the surprise of novices in these scenes, it is found that instead of dresses the only exhibition is of paper patterns. Decapitated body frames, with most engaging waists, are covered with tissue paper dresses of multiform hues, flounced, bordered, trimmed and cloaked; big pasteboard suggestions of small girls with curly hair and immense legs are hung from the ceiling, bedizened in pink, rose and blue; male juveniles of similar material, in endless fantastic costumes, hang as a study for fond mammas; and many colored sleeves, variously bedecked, are suspended around, kindling startling visions of amputation. Sweet things in bonnets, all in tissue paper, lie on the mantelpiece, accompanied by minute hats; and, dotted at different points upon the walls are found notices of various kinds, stating that instructions can be given in cutting.

It is a world of women. Nobody is over five feet there. Everybody is little, and in skirts. Pallid maidens, victims of long sedentary hours answer questions and explain styles, a severe dame at a desk keeps an eye on things, and a charming fashion editor, of the gentler sex, circulates busily around.

These tissue-paper dresses are a recent invention. Their manufacture requires considerable skill. They are duplicated to a large extent, and sold to dress-makers in city and country at from $2 50 to $8 each. Their contrivance suggests business originality.

The Sun reporter was quite abashed at the blaze of the antagonistic sex. He had never been at the opening before, and was bewildered at the thought of unraveling the obstuse problems before him. He took off his hat and related his business to the severe dame at the desk. She grimly bent her head and sent him up stairs. An intellectual maiden in a crimsoned jacket appeared, and stated that there would be a run on plaids for wraps and street dresses this season. She held up a dress which she said, had a "coachman's cape," trimmed with black velvet, a wide collar, and a high bow at the back, both of the same material. It had one flounce a quarter of a yard wide, caught up in four shapes, and an overskirt, very deep, touching the top of the flounce at the back, and puffed very full at the side. The trimmings were of velvet.

A Skotch plaid street dress was then shown. It was trimmed with flounces. A plain basque of gray poplin, trimmed with bows to match the plaid of the skirt, and puffed en panier, was also shown. The flounces were headed with a puffing of the poplin, matching the shade of the basque. The latter had a small plaid collar, and buttons covered with plaid, down the entire front. It was close-fitting, and finished with two buttons at the back.

A train dinner dress was next in order. It was of pearl gray, trimmed with rich black Brussels lace, and black velvet edged with white. The underskirt was trained, but quite plain, and the upper skirt was extensively bunched under the small basque. Both of the latter were trimmed with lace and velvet. Here the charming fashion editor interposed in startling style. She said the body was cut open, displaying a "heart." This meant that the dress was open at the bust in the shape of a heart, and trimmed with lace to form a large collar. The sleeves were antique, with deep lace ruffles and round velvet bows.

Mantles were exhibited. They can be made of any kind of shawls, simply gathered in folds at the side of the front and center of the back, and with a corner thrown over the shoulder, forming a cape. Other shawls formed hoods; and many other patterns of both shawls and dresses were displayed. Sleeves, it was said, were to be generally shaped to the arm, and rather closer at the wrist than last year. There was full dress sleeves, worn cut or puffed to the elbow, with ruffles of lace, in antique style.

The principal novelty in regard to bonnets was that that they were to be high in front, suggesting a Houdan fowl. Hats were also to be higher than hitherto. The details given were numerous.—N. Y. Sun.

Grant among the People.

[From the Pittsburg Commercial.]

The President who though in office only six months, has introduced order, fidelity and rigid economy into the affairs of the Government, where before extravagance and fraud ruled, and, as a result, has reduced the National debt forty-nine millions of dollars, and prepared the way for a reduction of the taxes, will ever be welcome among the people. These facts constitute his passport to and among them, are the fulfillment of their hopes in electing him, and the ground on which they stand ready to pledge to him their support in the future. There is something so tangible and gratifying in these results, leaving out of view his transcendant military services, that nothing can shake Grant in the affection and confidence of the American people. They have learned that in the administration of the civil affairs of the Government, he is just as much in earnest as when he proposed to "move at once" on the enemy's works in the days of his dawning greatness. As he neglected then a good many of the ways and means with which indifferent success had been achieved by others, so now, as President, he in many particulars departs from the paths of tradition and proceeds by original and the most direct routes to the object to be accomplished. The new things and ways at first not a little surprised the country—just as it was surprised when Grant commenced his early military career in the South-west—have come to be viewed as the effective methods of a new man who knows thoroughly what he is about, and can be safely trusted. It is precisely in this light that Grant is viewed as he moves about among the people—their President, gaining a knowledge of their wishes, and the wants of the country. This going among the people, avoiding as far as possible all parade, has been referred to as a departure from the course of former Presidents, but the propriety and wisdom of such a course are fully recognized. The country knows enough of Grant now to feel that as President he wears well. His administration is successful to an extent that fully satisfies the nation. There is peace and order on all our borders. The public credit was never so good. The country is prosperous. The prospect is assuring. The future is full of promise. We look ahead and aloft hopefully, confident that so long as as Grant remains at the helm, there will be honesty, economy and stability in public affairs.

"I never heard," says a Paris correspondent of the London Star, "a more striking instance of strong man 'dying hard' than one that is given in the Paris papers. A well-known wrestler and athlete of Avignon, bearing the illustrious name of Meissonnier, caught, a few weeks ago, his death illness, by carrying a little girl across a swollen ford she was obliged to traverse in order to take to her father his dinner. This action was performed in the most good-natured way. Meissonnier seeing the child, who was to him an utter stranger, trembling and weeping on the brink, said to her: 'Take heart, little one, I'll serve as a ferry for you.' Swinging her upon his shoulder, he carried her over. On returning to the bank from whence he started, he slipped, and was thoroughly submerged. A cold, which led to a virulent fever, was the result. As his end approached, Meissonnier literally struggled with the malady, and his last words were: 'Oh, Death, if you were a man what short work I'd make of you.'"

It appears, according to Senator Ramsey, of Minnesota, charged by our Government with the duty of negotiating a new postal treaty with France, that there is but a poor prospect for doing so. It has been found impossible to persuade France to consent to any alteration of her own standard, which is seven and a half grammes, or a quarter of an ounce. This is her home standard, and her uniform rate is four cents of our money per letter. Now, from our habit of writing upon strong, heavy paper, almost every letter of an American, even with care, exceeds the standard of seven and a half grammes, and if the excess be but a feather's weight, it doubles the charge, and amounts to thirty-two cents of our money to or from America. Our correspondence with France now amounts to about $300,000 per annum. If even an alteration of ten grammes were agreed to by that Government, it would be a gain to us of $100,000 per annum. France also refuses to allow our closed mails to pass through her territory.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE.

WEEKLY REVIEW.

PORTLAND, Oct. 1, 1869.

The money market here has exhibited some of the effects of the great financial disturbance in the East.

Our latest gold quotations from New York are 131¼. No late legal tender rates at San Francisco have been received. They have been ruling at 70@75 cents during the past week in this city, and stand at about the last rate named at this time.

The wheat and flour market in New York remains at the figures given last week, with an indication of increase in prices.

The California produce market, and the reports of commercial papers are reviewed by the San Francisco correspondent of the Sacramento Union in terms which in many respects apply to the same subjects in this State. Speaking of the wheat market more particularly, he says:

The price of Wheat has been reduced nearly 10 cents ℔ cental, in the face of a demand for export that induces shippers to give a bonus of $1,000 for a ship, in addition to £3 10s ℔ ton freight. When will the producers be able to break up this nefarious system? The commercial papers are garbling statements from English papers to aid in deceiving the farmers, by endeavoring to make it appear that there is likely to be a large crop in Europe. The Mark Lane Express of August 23d states that "the Wheat crop does not improve upon acquaintance. There is certainly much that does not exceed 60 lbs to the bushel." In speaking of the prospects of the season it says: "There is quite enough in present indications to decry low prices as finally detrimental to the public good. There is this year more variety in the yield, and this alone should guard us from presumption, as the blight from rot and frost is not partial in many places, but total."

The markets in France, Germany, Hungary, Russia, Spain and Italy are all upward. In northern Russia the crop will not be half as large as last year. In the western States the crop is not as large as interested parties represent. In Oregon nearly one third of the crop has been ruined by recent rains. In this State nearly one-half the crop is unfit for export, and we have already shipped 2,500,000 centals, or nearly one-half as much as we exported last year, and there are vessels enough here and on the way to carry off all we have to spare. Under such a condition of affairs, we ask farmers whether they are wise in selling shipping Wheat at $1 50 per cental.

The reports published by the Grain Exchange relating to the English market are not true. The telegrams only give one price, when the market takes a wide range. On the 17th of August the Grain Exchange reports published in all the papers here quoted California Wheat at 11s 2d. The Mark Lane Express on that day quoted it at 11s 10d, or 16c ℔ cental higher. This is an immense deception, because when the market there actually does drop 1d it falls 5c here. The Exchange reports quote the price down to 10s 10d; private dispatches do not corroborate such reports; on the contrary, sales of California White Wheat were made yesterday at 11s 6d. This matter of undervaluing our grain crop will be disastrous to the State if it is not exposed. A farmer cannot raise grain on land worth $20 an acre at less than $1 50 ℔ cental, and pay for bags, transportation and labor. As only one-half of the crop is represented to be worth $1 50 ℔ cental, large quantities selling at $1@1 40 and less, and good grain land cannot be bought for less than $20 ℔ acre, it follows—if the commercial papers are to be believed—that farmers can make nothing in this State, while the speculators are growing rich. Such a state of affairs is not favorable to immigration.

The demand for shipping to carry grain has never been as urgent as at present. There are twenty-five vessels now under charter here and about forty have been chartered prior to arrival. It will require upwards of 4,000,000 centals to fill all the vessels chartered, and still the market goes down!

The receipts of produce have been rather lighter than for several weeks past, embracing 250,500 sks Flour, 235,750 sks wheat (including cargoes loaded at Vallejo), 28,758 sks barley, 11,476 sks oats, 9,676 sks potatoes, 378 sks beans, 250 sks corn, 2,356 sks bran and middlings, 336 bales wool, 6,856 bales hay from localities around the bay (including Stockton, Santa Clara and the upper Sacramento); 13,375 sks wheat, 969 sks barley, 3,367 sks oats, 4,037 sks potatoes, 170 bales wool, 257 sks beans and 575 sks corn from coast counties, and 5,052 sks flour, 34 bales of wool from Oregon.

The exports include 45,769 sks flour, 9,658 sks wheat, 713 sks barley.

Our own grain market is still in a somewhat dull condition and is done affected by the state of things in California. It is no use denying the fact that we are to a great extent controlled by the markets in that State, and all that inflates or depresses them is manifested in the same way here. The paper above refered to says:

It is a suggestive illustration of the condition of this market that it is the cheapest in the world for whatever we produce, and the dearest for whatever we import.

It is this feature in our business that prostrates every department of manufactures and impedes the development of our agricultural and industrial resources. What a striking proof of this fact is furnished by our heavy exports of wool, hides, rags, leather, and other raw materials for manufacture, which we re-import when manufactured, paying the expenses of transportation both ways, and a liberal profit to those who conduct the business. If California were destitute of facilities for manufacturing purposes, or if her people lack skill, energy or enterprise, or were the gold, silver in such a condition as to want a steady and sure supply of that metal, there might be some excuse for neglecting her agricultural and manufacturing resources. But as the careers of these [illegible] policy, which could not continue for a single month but for our [illegible] system, which places the whole resources of the State under the control of a combination of usurers, who are drawing immense dividends on their capital, while merchants, manufacturers, farmers, millers, mechanics and laborers are struggling to [illegible].

What California requires to make her great and wealthy is a comprehensive, liberal, banking system, which shall so manage her finances that speculators, importers and capitalists shall not control the money market, and stunt every branch of productive industry by refusing money to carry them on. Only consider how great must have been the mismanagement which has left a State which has produced $1,000,000,000 of gold within twenty years without sufficient to conduct its business! The worst part of the story is the bald fact that it is impossible to effect a remedy for the evil so long as the present financial system is maintained. Because it is now within the power and directly to the interest of Eastern and Western merchants and manufacturers to keep our supply of coin below the demand, as that keeps up the rate of interest so high as to place this market for their merchandise under their control.

These truths in regard to the ruinous policy in connection with the trade of the Pacific Coast are well spoken, and it behooves the commercial and business men of all classes to inaugurate a system that will remedy the evil.

Trade during the past week has been lively with our wholesale merchants and seasonable goods are in fair supply and good demand.

The articles of salt, syrup, coal oil and sugar have all advanced and may be quoted as firm at the figures given below.

The principal complaint of dull times comes from our retail dealers, whose system of doing business is not calculated to mend the matter. They order a stock from San Francisco about two or three times a year, and having bought on credit, much of the proceeds go to liquidate their claims there, and a new stock is purchased when the old has been sold off. Thus they occupy the relation of agents for California merchants to a great extent, but few of them keeping sufficiently ahead to have a full stock constantly on hand. They might replenish their stock from time to time at the wholesale houses in our own city, and realize fully as much as by this continuous patronage bestowed upon San Francisco to the disadvantage to Oregon of being always drained of money. A mutual agreement between the merchants of our State to help each other, and a determination to do business on a plan calculated to benefit this country regardless of the interest of California capitalists, would soon place us on a better basis in a commercial point of view.

HIRAM SMITH'
Ophthalmic Panac

IS WITHOUT DOUBT THE MOST WO EYE HEALER that has yet been disc. It CURES the most stubborn and hopeless CHRONIC INFLAMMATIONS, GRANULATED FILMS, &c., as has been sufficiently demonstrated during the few months in which it has been brought public notice. The proprietor is so fully confident of its INFALLIBILITY that he WARRANTS A CURE or REFUNDS THE MONEY. It can do the eye no harm and a trial of it is therefore without injury or risk the patient if a cure is not effected.

It has cured cases of FIVE, SIX, NINE, and even EIGHTEEN YEARS standing in Linn county, Oregon, and its vicinity, to which the following persons will bear witness:

E. H. MOORE, NATHANIEL
A. L. WALLACE, G. B. WARD
Mrs. MONTGOMERY, JOHN M. HOL
W. D. PORTER, ROB'T RAMSEY

And others in that vicinity.

Persons afflicted with the distressing diseased eyes are advised to give this remedy a trial, the NO CURE, NO PAY and NO INJURY plan.
